

Hunt & Co's Directory of E. Norfolk & parts of Suffolk, 1850

MARTHAM, an important village, occupying a salubrious and delightful site, being erected on elevated ground, and environed by extensive marshes stretching on the east as far as the German ocean; is distant 17 miles E.N.E. of Norwich, and 10 miles N.N.W. of Yarmouth. The village consists of a variety of handsome houses and excellent shops, which give it an air of commercial importance, and, if we may judge of the prosperity of its inhabitants by the general appearance of their well-stocked shops, their trading efforts have been happily crowned with complete success. The parish, with its hamlet of Cess, comprises an area of 2280 acres, and the population in 1841 was 1032. Post-Office, at John Lee Hunt's. Letters delivered at 11 a.m. and despatched to Norwich and all parts, via Yarmouth, at 3 p.m.
